How Does It Feel to Be Reset?

To reset is to be hauled into a master's studio as a block of granite, nothing more than potential, and emerge as Michelangelo's David; it is to lie on a palette as daubs of color and come to life on canvas as Da Vinci's The Last Supper. To reset is to go into the furnace as oblong clay, wet and glistening, soft, no more than mud, and emerge as a brick, a useful building tool, ready to be part of a great structure. To reset is to go into the locker room at halftime trailing, downtrodden, and with defeat in your heart, and emerge for the second half on fire, with nothing but victory in your heart, willing to do whatever it takes to operate at the absolute peak of your capacity. To reset is to go into boot camp an aimless youth, a little soft, a lot unfocused, and emerge a soldier, someone honed and hardened, someone with clear purpose and a new sense of pride and character. To reset is to be broken eggs that reemerge as a soufflé. To reset is to be hauled from the junkyard as a rusty old automobile, broken-down, unable to do that for which you were made, and emerge from a reconditioner's shop gleaming, running smoothly like a purring tiger, ready to take to the road or to dazzle at a vintage auto show. To reset is to be an orphan, abandoned by someone whose life is in ruin, and emerging later from an adoptive household, a healthy, happy human being, ready for a life of use and value. To reset is to be a yolk and white inside a shell, basically just a blob of gelled liquid, to be absorbed by a tiny single-celled embryo and grow to become a fully formed chick, cracking that shell from the inside and emerging as a fledgling, ready for the world. To reset is to be an abandoned property with weeds and thickets all over the yard, the house closed and musty in need of repair, and a showplace emerges with fresh paint and sunlight streaming in, the yard trimmed along with hedges and gardens and a glistening pool in the back. Now let us get ready for a total divine makeup, fresh fix and replace in our life, family, career, health, business and education in the mighty Name of Jesus Christ (Amen)

REVELATIONAL QUOTE

"No Real Life Without It; Life by its very definition is a growth process. That which is alive is growing. For example, seedlings grow to be trees, in some cases to heights of several hundred feet. Even when they reach their full height, they exhibit regular growth through the production of new leaves, branches, or fruit. The principle of growth also holds true in the spiritual realm. An essential, inherent characteristic for everyone in the Body of Christ is individual spiritual growth."

QUOTABLE QUOTE

God's promises of comfort are not just for reflecting upon, as though they were some mystical or philosophical thoughts on life, but for living in the world. They are associated with help and encouragement in times of stress, sorrow and difficulty, and show that God is deeply interested in all that goes on in our lives. Here are just some of the areas where God promises his comfort to us."

Statement of Faith

That the Holy Bible is divinely inspired by God, and is infallible, trustworthy and dependable, and authoritative in all matters of faith and conduct.

That there is only one God, who is eternally existed in three distinctive persons: Father, Son and Holy Spirit.

That Jesus Christ our Lord is God manifested in the human flesh to take away our sins and hopelessness by his voluntary suffering, death and physical resurrection.

That salvation of all humanity is only through the redemptive work of Jesus Christ. Jesus Christ is our only Hope in the world of hopelessness.

That the Holy Spirit indwells every believer in Christ to live a holy life, to witness about Christ to the lost and to be anointed to be victorious in every sphere of life.

That the church is made up of those who have genuinely accepted Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior.

That healing of various kinds is integral part of the redemptive work of Jesus Christ. Water baptism and the Lord's Supper are authentic ordinances of the church.

That there is Satan and its demonic co-workers, whose work is to thwart and frustrate the purpose of God on earth, but their final end is the hell fire.

That there shall be a bodily resurrection of the dead in Christ to heaven, and of the unrepentant sinners to hell fire.

Church Vision
